

From June 22-25, the NASA@ My Library team and other NASA groups interacted with hundreds of professional library staff from around the country at the 2018 ALA Annual Conference in New Orleans, Louisiana.

The NASA@ My Library team presented numerous NASA Hyperwall talks highlighting STEM activities such as Loony Lunar Phases and Strange New Planet. In addition, they hosted three, hour-long sessions highlighting new tech trends in STEM, afterschool partnerships, and 2017 eclipse reflections along with distributing information and giveaways at the NASA booth.
